Sports for Nature® Green NBA night at Verizon Center during game between the Washington Wizards and San Antonio Spurs

Washington, DC, January 3, 2011

Sports for Nature's GREEN TICKET INITIATIVE is a program created to help raise funds for environmental organizations through sports. The way it works is fans buy tickets for any sporting event through a special Sports for Nature online link that allows them to purchase tickets without a fee or any additional charges, and the host team (in this case the Washington Wizards), donate a small percentage of each ticket sale to Sports for Nature which in turn provides the entire donation to one of its partner green charities.

On Saturday, February 12th the Washington Wizards will host at the Verizon Center the team with the best record in the NBA, the San Antonio Spurs. And on that night, Sports for Nature will be the featured Community Program during the game. Sports for Nature staff will be present and will have tables on the concourse to interact with fans, play games and provide giveaways.

The most important aspect is that the Washington Wizards will provide a $10 donation to one of Sports for Nature's green charity partners for each ticket sold online through the exclusive Sports for Nature link: www.SportsForNature.com/GreenTicket. Through this link, fans may purchase tickets at any price range, and not have to pay any fees or additional charges. This creates a win-win situation for the fans, for the green charities and for the Washington Wizards, all benefiting from the connection between sports and the environment.

SPORTS FOR NATURE harnesses the power of sports to help save our planet and to promote green practices in all sports. Sports for Nature = Healthier people in a healthier world.
